

Foeniculum vulgare

COMMON NAME

fennel

FAMILY

Apiaceae

AUTHORITY

Foeniculum vulgare Mill.

FLORA CATEGORY

Vascular – Exotic

STRUCTURAL CLASS

Herbs - Dicotyledons other than Composites

NVS CODE

FOEVUL

CONSERVATION STATUS

Not applicable

SIMILAR TAXA

Perennial herbaceous plant from the carrot family; often reach 2m; yellow-flowered (West, 1996). Numerous yellow flowers 1-2mm; fruit dark brown 3-6mm (Webb et al., 1988).

FLOWER COLOURS

Yellow

YEAR NATURALISED

1867

ORIGIN

S. and S.W. Europe

ETYMOLOGY

foeniculum: Named for genus which includes fennel, from the Latin foeniculum 'hay' in reference to its odour.

Life Cycle Comments

Plant dies back to a root stock after flowering (West, 1996).

Seed

Numerous seeds are produced from the flower heads (West, 1996).

Dispersal

Wind dispersed a short distance or else attach to animals and carried further (West, 1996).

Foraging for fennel

Click on the Radio New Zealand National logo to listen to This Way Up. Simon Morton interviews Johanna Knox about foraging for fennel (duration: 10'51")

MORE INFORMATION

<https://www.nzpcn.org.nz/flora/species/foeniculum-vulgare/>

Foeniculum vulgare. Photographer: John Smith-Dodsworth, Licence: CC BY-NC.

Foeniculum vulgare. Photographer: John Smith-Dodsworth, Licence: CC BY-NC.